DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/30/2004 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-2, 7-8, 13-14, 16, 18-19, 22 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DE 197 16 404.

Art Unit: 3683

DE 197 16 404 discloses all the limitations of the instant claims including: a master cylinder 1 including a housing and at least two pressurizing pistons (4a, 6a) which are fluid-tightly and slidably fitted in the housing and which cooperate with the housing to define at least two pressurizing chambers (4, 6) which are isolated from each other, and wherein a working fluid in each of the at least two pressurizing chambers is pressurized by an advancing movement of a corresponding one of the at least two pressurizing pistons, a hydraulically operable brake cylinder 3 for activating a brake, and a valve device 12 having a first state 12.2 in which the pressurized fluid is delivered from the two pressurizing chambers to the brake cylinder, and a second state 12.1 in which the pressurized fluid is delivered from only one of the two chambers to the brake cylinder while the fluid discharged from the other of said two pressurizing chambers is not delivered to said brake cylinder.

Regarding claim 13, valves 12, 21 or 22 also functions as a cut-off valves.

Regarding claim 22, assisting device 10 functions to boost pressure above that of the master cylinder.

Regarding claim 24, brake pressure control valve device 20 is disposed between the assisting device and the brake cylinder.

Claim 37 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Oka et al (US#6196641).

Oka et al disclose all the limitations of the instant claim including; a master cylinder which is operatively connected to a manually operable brake operating member and which partially defines a pressurizing chamber; a stroke simulator connected to the pressurizing chamber; a simulator control valve 102 electrically operable to control an operating state of the stroke simulator; and a stroke control device 77 operable to restrict the flow of to the stroke simulator, wherein the stroke simulator permits the flow of the pressurized fluid from said pressurizing chamber into said stroke simulator when the pressure of the pressurized fluid in said pressurizing chamber is higher than a predetermined value while said simulator control valve is placed in said open state. See column 30, lines 28-32. Note a predetermined pressure is required to overcome the spring force of the stroke simulator.

Claims 37 and 44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by JP 11-341604.

JP 11-341604 disclose all the limitations of the instant claim including; a master cylinder which is operatively connected to a manually operable brake operating member and which partially defines a pressurizing chamber; a stroke simulator 15 connected to the pressurizing chamber; a simulator control valve 14 electrically operable to control an operating state of the stroke simulator; and a stroke control device 30 operable to restrict the flow of to the stroke simulator, wherein the stroke simulator permits the flow of the pressurized fluid from said pressurizing chamber into said stroke simulator when the pressure of the pressurized fluid in said pressurizing chamber is higher than a predetermined value while said simulator control valve is placed in said open state.

Art Unit: 3683

Note a predetermined pressure is required to overcome the spring force of the stroke simulator.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 25-36 and 42-43 are allowed.

Claims 9-12, 15, 17, 21 and 23 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 04/30/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding DE 19716404, it is maintained the rejection is proper. In the second valve state, the valve device 12 does not deliver fluid to the brake cylinder. Instead, the fluid is delivered to the pump. While the pump may deliver the fluid to the brake cylinder, this function in not carried out by the valve device. It is also noted that applicant's invention comprises a check valve 124 which may deliver fluid to the brake cylinder in a second state.

Regarding claims 37 and 44, the limitations of claim 12 have been incorporated into the claims. While claim 12 is objected to as being dependent on a rejected base claim, the limitations of its base claim (claim 1) and intervening claims have not been added to claim 37. See the rejection above.
